Dear Mazhar,

My colleague Nick Ecart, Senior Director Business Development, recently informed me of a valuable contribution you made toward the revision of ASTM International A0194, Standard Specification for Carbon Steel, Alloy Steel, and Stainless Steel Nuts for Bolts for High Pressure or High Temperature Service, or Both. I would like to personally thank you for your time and effort in communicating this important change to us.

ASTM International has over 30,000 members and customers that make contributions to the content of ASTM's 13,000 standards on a daily basis. These volunteer contributions help to maintain relevancy of our work across 90 different industry sectors. Please accept my thanks and this small token of our appreciation.

Sincerely,
